Avoiding Plagiarism

With the exception of common knowledge, you should cite sources for all borrowed information used in your final document, including quotations, paraphrases, and summaries.

- In-text Citation
- Reference List

- A reference to the source of borrowed information in called a citation.
- There are two components of documentation:
  1. In-text-citation
  2. List of works cited

SUMMARY OR PARAPHRASE

- A trenchcoat and mask can easily disguise a few owls as a human, as experimentally shown by Smith [1], [2].
- Italian owls are suspicious of outsiders, as noted in [3]–[5].
- This is disputed by Civetta [6] and Strix [7], who are not owls in masks.
- The city of Florence is under an ancient curse, as repeatedly and exhaustively described in [8], [10], [13]–[17], [20].

IN-TEXT CITATION

SHORT QUOTATIONS

- “... as shown by Brown [4], as previously stated.” "The theory was first put forward in 1987 [1]."
- “For example, see [7].” "Several recent studies [3, 4, 15, 16] have suggested that..."
- The example above may also be formatted as: “Several recent studies [3], [4], [15], [16] have suggested that…”].

IN-TEXT CITATION

Citations/references with Multiple Authors

- During their research, Fan, et al. [4] discuss lasers in detail.
- However, in general you do not need to mention the authors by name, just use the numeric citation in square brackets.
- In full reference list at the end however, you always give the authors' names. In the reference list you can only abbreviate these using 'et al.' if there are six or more authors.

IN-TEXT CITATION

Reference List

In IEEE style your reference list should be formatted in the following way:

- Align references left Single-space each entry, double-space between every new entry
- Place number of entry at left margin, enclose in square brackets Indent text of entries

AI-use policy: four modes

MODE 0	Human-only	No generative AI during the task.
MODE 1	AI as critic	AI may diagnose or challenge, but not generate submit-ready prose.
MODE 2	Research assistant	AI may help map research; every source must be opened and verified.
MODE 3	Object of analysis	AI output itself becomes evidence to inspect.

Student AI-use policy

Non-negotiable disclosure

AI PROCESS NOTE

For any take-home assessed work where AI is permitted, attach the AI Process Note: tool used; purpose; one or more representative prompts; what was accepted/rejected; and how claims/sources were verified. The note is not a confession. It is process evidence.
